

9-18-38

B.O.V. 19-107

3

This is a black and white aerial photograph showing a complex terrain. A prominent river valley runs through the center, with a winding river and a large, light-colored area that could be a reservoir or a cleared field. The surrounding slopes are covered in dense vegetation, likely forest, with varying shades of gray indicating different elevations and vegetation types. The overall appearance is that of a mountainous region with significant topographic relief.